

ABDALLA MUSTAFA BEN-AMER, Libyan, aged 61, founder and general manager of National House Limited since was established in 2001.

He holds a Bachelor of science in Mechanical Engineering from WIT of Boston Massachusetts in 1984. Abdalla's career started with Brown & Root Limited in 1986, He joined B&R's engineering department headquarter in Benghazi for consecutive (3) three years, in which he was counselling technical issues during the starting phase of the Man-Made River Project in the Libyan desert.

In 1990 Abdalla joined Al-Emara Engineering Firm which was one of three main engineering companies owned by the Libyan government, He graduated at Al-Emara since then until he became the Deputy chief Director, and later he became the Chairman of the Board of Directors. Abdalla throughout the 1990'S became the company's executer and spearheaded of most of all engineering design projects. In 1990 he was appointed as "Head of Electro-Mechanical Section". In 1994 he was appointed as "Head of Projects Department". In 1998 he was appointed as "Member of Boards" at Al-Emara co., In the year 2000 he was appointed as "Head Manager of the Engineering Department" . In 2003 Al-Emara was restructured and Abdalla was appointed as "Manager of Designs and studies Department". In 2011 Abdalla was appointed as "Chairman of the Board of Directors" until he resign in 2014.

At meantime and in the year of 2001 Abdalla and partners established a consulting firm NHEC limited, Since was founded and up to date Abdalla successfully steered NHEC into Engineering and Construction Management Company to take over and lead a considerable large number of engineering projects in Libya.